KNOWLTON HALL
Take the elevator to the fourth floor and follow the ramps down to the ground level for a tour of Knowlton Hall. The building was designed by Mack Scogin Merrill Elam Architects of Atlanta with local architect Wandel & Schnell (now WSA Studio), the landscape architect was Michael Van Valkenburgh and Associates, New York and Cambridge, and the structural engineer was Lantz Jones & Nebraska, Inc. (now SMBH, Inc.)

ROOFTOP GARDEN
Exit the east elevator on the fourth floor and turn right. The rooftop garden is filled with sumac that are native to the Northeastern United States, and often are found growing wild throughout Ohio.

RUSCILLI TERRACE
The Ruscilli Terrace provides the perfect opportunity for a photo with The Shoe—commencement location and OSU icon. Located at the west end of the second floor, the terrace is named for Jack Ruscilli of Ruscilli Construction Co., Inc.

BANVARD GALLERY
The Banvard Gallery has featured work ranging from internationally known architects, landscape architects and planners, to community service groups and student projects. Located on the east end of the ground level, the Banvard Gallery was given by Navy Banvard—an alumnus of the class of ’82, and a long-time supporter of the Knowlton School.

SOUTH GARDEN CUTOUT
The South Garden Cutout is brimming with foliage and includes stacked marble slabs extracted from the same quarry as the tiles covering the building exterior. Located on the south-facing side of the building, the glass walls expose a cross section of Knowlton Hall.

KNOWLTON COLUMNS
A gift from Austin E. “Dutch” Knowlton, an alumnus of the class of ’31 and namesake of the school and Knowlton Hall, the columns outside the west end of the building represent the five classical orders of architecture—Tuscan, Doric, Ionic, Corinthian and Composite.
