Spring is near and the polar vortex has all but said goodbye. So, help Bike OSU wish winter farewell by attending the 4th annual Winter Bike Show. Happening Thursday, February 27th, at the Knowlton School of Architecture, bicycle enthusiasts from the greater Columbus region will be showing up to say hello to other bicyclists, and many of the participants will be eligible to win some great prizes. Don't forget that this year's Winter Bike Show will again be located at 275 West Woodruff Avenue, Columbus, Ohio 43210. The students involved with Bike OSU are planning a fun filled night for attendees to exhibit their bike, learn safe riding skills and, of course, enjoy Winter's last stand.

Bicycle registration will begin at 4pm, and the first 60 people to register their rides can enter to win prizes, so be sure to show up on time. We do expect to allow more than 60 bikes to register, but the pedal-ers who registered late will, unfortunately, be ineligible for prizes. Please note, the entire event is being held inside the School of Architecture! And remember, the Winter Bike Show is free and open to the public; there is no cost for students to show their ride, but non-students are being asked to make a $1-$10 donation.

This year's WBS is made possible through generous support by those at Compton Construction, the Ohio State University and the Knowlton School of Architecture. A portion of the proceeds from the night will go to Cycle Vets, a great cycling group based in the Franklinton neighborhood of Columbus. Members from that organization will also be helping do quick and simple fixes—using Bike OSU's Mobile Bike Clinic—to help make your journey from point A to point B one that is safe and sound.

Anyone interested in the upcoming event can learn more from Bike OSU's official Facebook page, https://www.facebook.com/WeBikeOSU. Lastly, those interested in volunteering can contact the club president, Collin Balsley, at balsley.6@osu.edu.
